TWO VIEWS of wreckage of the C-46 airliner which crashed taking off at Seattle, Wash., show where it plunged through seven houses, setting them afire and leaving a toll of six killed and 36 injured, seven of the injured being residents of the damaged dwellings. The plane carried 28 passengers and crew of four. The crash sheared off the tail, thus affording an escape hatch. (International Soundphotos)

PACT VOTING
SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Attempts At "Riders".
Limiting Commitments,
Will Be Offered

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—The senate came up to a vote on the North Atlantic pact amid a stormy wrangle over sharing atomic secrets with 11 other nations.

Treaty foes demanded to know whether arms for Europe will mean giving the atomic bomb—or atomic secrets—to the Atlantic allies.

"We've got to have an answer before the treaty is ratified—not after," Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) told reporters. The final treaty vote is scheduled late this afternoon.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the senate-house atomic energy committee, told the senate last night treaty approval will not obligate the U. S. to give the atom bomb or atomic secrets to pact nations.

Aid Is Question
The precise nature of military aid to be given to Europe must be determined when congress acts on a proposed arms-for-Europe program, McMahon said answering a question by Wherry.

Senate leaders said they were confident that even the atomic issue will not halt overwhelming approval of the treaty. They estimated no more than 15 votes—and perhaps less—against the pact.

The first show-down ballot was due shortly after 4 p. m., E. S. T. on a treaty reservation sponsored by Wherry, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and Senator Watkins (R-Utah).

This reservation says it would be the understanding of the United States that Article 3 of the treaty carries no obligation to supply military aid to pact nations.

Pact critics say article 3 would obligate this nation to re-arm western Europe, if it is not made explicitly plain that it does not. Supporters of the treaty deny there is any such commitment and call the reservation unnecessary and unwieldy.

Vote On Reservations
Then the senate is scheduled to vote in quick order on two other Watkins' reservations. One would state in brief the United States is not obligated by the pact to defend the North Atlantic area or to use armed force to resist attack until congress approves. The second would say congress is not obligated by the treaty to declare war in event of an attack on a pact nation.

Once the amendments are out of the way, the senate will vote on a resolution of ratification—the act which will instantly pledge the United States to a historic new foreign policy.

Sewer Line Cave-Ins
Affect Light Service

An explanation for the poor street lighting situation in the southern and eastern parts of the city lately was made today by Service Director Frank K. Wilson.

He said the storm sewer excavations on E. Pershing st. are close to the light cable line and that cave-ins along the route have weakened the circuit.

Last night several streets were completely dark.

Wilson said his department is doing its best to keep up the service.

North Canton Man Dies
Fishing At Westville

Archibald A. Swope, 64, of North Canton, died of a heart attack at 8:10 p. m. Wednesday while getting out of a rowboat after fishing on Westville lake.

Sheriff's deputies, who investigated, said that Swope had had a light attack during the afternoon, but had recovered and gone out in the evening to fish.

The body was brought to the Stark Memorial, and will be returned to North Canton for burial.

Gen. Marshall
Voices Approval
Of Pact And Aid

By JOHN L. STEELE

(Copyright 1949 by The United Press Associations)

WASHINGTON, July 21—(UP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, former Secretary of State, said today he feels certain that "the Atlantic pact will contribute to world peace."

The wartime army chief of staff told the United Press exclusively that he also believes the mutual defense treaty will "immeasurably" strengthen the security of the United States and its 11 partners in the Atlantic area.

Marshall discussed the pact and its implications at length in answering a series of questions submitted to him by this reporter. It was one of his most extensive discussions of world affairs since he left the State department last January.

Here are some of the questions put to Marshall, and the general's answers:

Q. Do you regard the pact's pledge to consider an attack on one signatory as an attack on all, with the consequent commitment that each nation will take such steps as it deems necessary, as an "automatic" commitment for United States participation in any European war?

Not Automatic
A. No. The United States can wage war only if congress declares war. The treaty does not infringe on the power of the congress in this connection, nor does it alter, I think, the relationship between the authority of the congress and of the President as defined in the Constitution. The undertaking on the part of the United States to consider an attack on any of the Atlantic pact nations as an attack on itself is, in reality, little more than formal recognition of the factors which affect its national security.

The language of the treaty makes it clear that in the event of an armed attack each nation must decide for itself the measures it should take to restore and maintain the security of the North Atlantic area, and then it must take those measures.

Q. In what manner do you believe the pact will be beneficial to the security and national defense of the United States and of the other co-signatories?

Clear Point
A. The two world conflicts which have occurred in the past 35 years have made it unmistakably clear that an aggression on any of the free nations of the Atlantic area would be a threat to the security of the United States and of the other co-signatories.

Laborers, Farmers Scored
Biggest Income Gain In '48

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—Laborers and farmers scored the biggest income gains of boom-time 1948, a year that saw income distributed more evenly among the American people than ever before.

A Federal Reserve board survey showed unskilled laborers did best of all with a $350 gain to a level of $2,100 in the median or middle-size income for workers of that class.

Skilled and semi-skilled workers, grouped together in the board's report, fared next best with a $300 increase to give them a median of $3,300.

That, incidentally, was practically the same as the median figure for American families in general—$3,320 before taxes, or $3,000 after federal tax payments. Half did better, the other half worse.

Of course while incomes were up, living costs were too, in 1948. Farm operators, who get a lot out of their work that can't be priced in cash terms, managed to increase their median cash income $300 to a $1,800 figure.

Clerks and salesmen and women moved up $100 to a $3,000 median income level, but business owners-managers and professional people, (doctors, lawyers, etc.) stayed put at 1947's $4,500 and $4,000, respectively.

Out of 43,800,000 American families, only 26 per cent (11,388,000) had incomes under $2,000 in 1948 compared with 31 per cent in 1947 and 35 per cent in 1946.

Between 1947 and 1948, the proportion of families with incomes of $2,000 to $3,000 remained unchanged—20 per cent—but there were increases in the $3,000 to $4,000 bracket (20 per cent of 1948 families), the $4,000-$5,000 bracket (12 per cent) and $5,000-$7,500 (14 per cent).

In 1948, eight per cent (3,504,000) of the 43,800,000 families had incomes above $7,500, the same as in 1947. That was before taxes. Deduction of the amount of federal income tax they owed for 1948 would knock 876,000 of them out of the above-$7,500 bracket.

That would depend on whether the Army would return its wheat "savings" to the federal treasury or spend the money for other purposes. The Army refused to comment on grounds that "negotiations" still are in progress.

The Army's proposal, informants said, is that wheat going into Germany should be sold at the ceiling price set by the International wheat agreement. The pact goes into effect Aug. 1. Germany is not now a party to this agreement. The Army supplies the Germans with wheat it buys from the agriculture department, which, in turn, buys it on the U.S. market.

The ceiling price set by the agreement may average about 50 cents a bushel below market prices during the coming year. The Army during the last year has supplied Germany with about 100,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Thus, the Army possibly could realize a saving of as much as $50,000,000 a year under its scheme.

The house debate, frequently bitter, ran like this: The administration side—Speakers argued that losses such as have been suffered in the potato support program could wreck the present farm program. They said that limited subsidies, instead of price supports, are the answer. Rep. Pace (D-Ga.), author of the administration bill, wanted to know how long the people would permit spending "hundreds of millions of dollars to support a program that lets food rot on the ground or feeds it to the hogs."

The opposition—Leaders charged that the administration bill, which promises cheaper food through subsidies, gets its support principally from organized labor—not from farmers. They argued that subsidies would lead to a peacetime OPA and cost billions more than present price supports. Congressional corridors were crowded with farm organization representatives. The American Farm Bureau federation and the National Grange are fighting the administration bill. The national farmers union is supporting it.

REACTION COOL
TO ARMY REQUEST
FOR CHEAP WHEAT

WASHINGTON, July 21—(UP)—The Army has approached the agriculture department about the possibility of obtaining a cut rate on the wheat it buys, it was disclosed today.

Informed sources said however that agriculture department officials are cool to the Army's plea.

These officials were said to believe that, while the cut-rate would lower the government's German food bill, it would also force the agriculture department to charge up a multi-million-dollar loss against its farm subsidy program.

It could not be determined whether the Army's proposal merely involves taking money out of one government pocket and putting it into another, or whether it would boost total government costs.

That would depend on whether the Army would return its wheat "savings" to the federal treasury or spend the money for other purposes. The Army refused to comment on grounds that "negotiations" still are in progress.

COALITION BLOCKS PLAN

Farm Plan Under Fire;
Democrats-GOP Whip
Leaders Have Whip

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—A formidable Democratic-Republican coalition threatened to take control of the house today and deliver a death blow at the Truman administration's new farm bill.

The house was called into session today to make crucial decisions that may determine the political fortunes of many farm belt Republicans and Democrats in the 1950 congressional campaigns.

There was talk of all sorts of compromises but before tonight the house may vote to:

1. Scuttle or water down the administration-backed bill that calls for a three-crop trial run of the Truman farm subsidy plan.

2. Kill outright or postpone the effective date of the Aiken law enacted by the Republican controlled 80th congress. This law, set to become effective next year, would permit a flexible 60 to 90 per cent of parity support program for major crops.

3. Continue the present farm program in 1950. This program supports major crops at a rigid 90 per cent of parity, (a price fixed by formula calculated to give farmers a fair purchasing power). This is done through government loans and purchases that keep price-depressing surpluses off the markets. Farmers do not now get direct subsidies from the government.

The house debate, frequently bitter, ran like this: The administration side—Speakers argued that losses such as have been suffered in the potato support program could wreck the present farm program. They said that limited subsidies, instead of price supports, are the answer. Rep. Pace (D-Ga.), author of the administration bill, wanted to know how long the people would permit spending "hundreds of millions of dollars to support a program that lets food rot on the ground or feeds it to the hogs."

Chest Drive
To Be Held
Oct. 11-15

Directors To Set Goal
At Next Meeting On August 29

Initial plans for the 1949 Salem Community Fund drive were made Wednesday at a meeting of the fund's board of directors in the Lape hotel.

The drive this year will run from Oct. 11 through Oct. 15, with a "kickoff" rally and dinner slated for Monday evening, Oct. 10, in the Memorial building. All fund workers will attend the dinner.

Applications for participating agencies are to be in the hands of Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, Chamber of Commerce secretary, by Aug. 15.

The quota for the drive will be set at a meeting of the directors on Aug. 29. Last year's goal was $34,480. It will not exceed that figure this year, the directors announced.

The campaign will be headed by Charles Haldi, chairman. Stephen Gonda is assistant chairman and John Hochadel is assistant in charge of industries.

Curtis Vaughan, chairman of the board of directors, conducted the meeting Wednesday.

FICHTER TO SPEAK TO BUTLER GRANGERS

State Master Joseph W. Fichter of Oxford will give the main address when Butler grange celebrates its 75th anniversary with a special program Sunday afternoon, July 31, in the hall. Special music will be included.

Frank Ward, a 50-year member, will be presented a gold sheaf in recognition of this record. Several members have reached the 25-year mark.

There will be a picnic dinner at noon. Friends of the members and members of nearby granges are invited.

Sen. Taft Says Rumored
Chairman "Acceptable"

WASHINGTON, July 21—(UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio said today several prospective candidates are acceptable to him for the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, but that he was not interfering in the choice.

Although he has favored the resignation of Chairman Hugh Scott, Sen. Taft told reporters he was not pushing any candidate to succeed Mr. Scott.

He said he was asked from time to time "if Mr. X were acceptable" and that most of the proposed candidates were. He said they included former Sen. John Danaher of Connecticut, Sen. T. Howard of Nebraska, Guy Gabrielson of New Jersey, former Rep. Edgar Chenoweth of Colorado "and others."

The national committee will meet Aug. 4 to choose the new chairman.

Psychology Of Opposition

Some Americans are endlessly intolerant of opposition. Their intolerance crops out in curious places. For example, it crops out in White House press conferences. The late Franklin D. Roosevelt hated to be opposed and suspected all his newspaper opponents of being dirty names, which he used to call them. Harry Truman, his successor, now has adopted the same attitude. It is typical, in a way, of modern political thinking that men who have pledged themselves to defend the Constitution of the United States should be careless about the fact this republic was founded and has been maintained by vigorous opposition.

The psychology of opposition in politics is basic. There's nothing mysterious about it. All governments have opposition. To oppose is part of human nature. It also is human nature to want to oppose the opposition. That's why police states flourish. It's why Hitler was a success. It's Stalin's secret—to get rid of the opposition before it can grow strong enough to get rid of him. It's what Harry Hopkins—or someone else—was thinking about when the doctrine to spend and spend and elect and elect was formed. It's the big idea behind one-party government. Get rid of the opposition. Thereafter everything will be like having the world by the tail on a downhill drag.

This is the inevitable tendency of parties in power—to stay in power at any cost. Therefore, in the psychology of opposition it becomes the obligation of its opponents to offset the tactics of the party in power with the best possible tactics of uprooting it when the right moment comes. That's what the Democrats did in 1932. And it's what the Republicans haven't been able to do since, largely because their strategists have failed to understand the psychology of opposition.

The people want to be given a choice. They want the opposition to oppose, not to equivocate. If there is to be a choice between the new deal and something else—and there's still time to make a choice—they want to be sure that "something else" isn't the same malarkey in a different wrapping.

Unfortunately, Republicans haven't been clear about this. With such notable exceptions as Senator Taft, who has a firm grasp of the psychology of opposition in politics, the party has been almost as disturbed about opposition as some of the spokesmen for the party it was opposing. That's why the Republican party's forthcoming reorganization which will come about through selection of a new chairman is vital. This easily could be the last chance for Americans to preserve the privilege of political opposition, the cornerstone of their freedom.

An opposition should oppose. Right now it should be unalterably opposed to runaway government spending, to breaking faith with people who have put their savings in government securities, to government by appointed officials representing minorities which don't dare to face an election, to the systematic corruption of public ethics by political giveaway projects and to the growing credo that there are some things in the United States which voters are too dumb to know about and therefore cannot question.

$3,500,000,000-Plus Gone

An announcement that more than $3,500,000,000 has been distributed under the unemployment relief section of the G. I. "bill of rights" is coupled with the prediction that this form of relief will not be continued by congress.

That would mean the end of the so-called 52-20 club for veterans of World War II. Members of this unofficial organization could draw $20 a week for as long as 52 weeks. The only firm qualification for membership was military service. Bona fide unemployment in many cases was optional.

Congress included this generous plan in the "bill of rights" because it believed mass unemployment would be the inevitable result of mass demobilization. During the summer of 1945, while the house and senate debated ways and means of returning millions of service men to civilian life, no one foresaw that this was going to be accomplished with a minimum of real unemployment. Even had it been foreseen, the impulse to be liberal to returning service men was too strong to be controlled at the time. At one stage in the preparation of the "bill of rights," a federal bonus was included. Later, it was dropped.

Until this summer, the unemployment which congress dreaded in 1945 never materialized. Jobless veterans of World War II never were a major problem. Yet, more than $3,500,000,000 was spent—not to relieve unemployment among veterans so much as to relieve fear of unemployment among congressmen. If they had that sum today to appropriate for the relief of unemployment among veterans of World War II, they could do twice as much good with it.

Success Story

Lucky Luciano, the Sicily-born gangster and vice lord who made good in the United States—so good that he could boast about his important connections—is being boomed for mayor of his home town, Lercara Friddi. Luciano, who left the United States by request, then was eased out of Cuba and later asked to leave Rome, is described by his fellow townsmen as a "man of great enterprise."

There's no doubt about that. The same aggressiveness and ingenuity which carried him to the top of gangstering might have carried him to the top of something worthwhile, had his talents been applied more scrupulously. Like Al Capone, his fellow countryman, Luciano missed the point of what it means to live in a land of opportunity.

He failed to make the right discriminations about his opportunities. But that would be hard to explain to his former neighbors in Lercara Friddi. All they know is that Lucky made scads of money and gained notoriety. He was a big shot in the United States, with important connections.

Footnote On Capitalism

Mrs. Elizabeth Bentley, confessed Communist courier, lived up the halls of Congress in an otherwise quiet Washington summer last year. Her tails of spy activity in government touched off the Hiss-Chambers duel.

Almost a year later, the House has just paid the bill for this excitement. It voted to settle up the $526 hotel charge rung up against Mrs. Bentley during the 14 days she was testifying.

We note with interest that she picked a smart hotel close to the House office buildings. With Communist doctrines perhaps still ringing in her ears, she may have been trying to strengthen her resolve to stand firm with the comforts of capitalism.

A particularly astute and shrewd move, or an intriguing development, may have power to turn the tide of dubious or critical affairs into channels making for surprising denouement. Strong urges in the direction of creative expression, imagination, ideals, even glamor or illusion, may prove effective where more matter-of-fact or obvious techniques or routines might not connect.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are admonished that it may prove more lucrative and advance solid interests to keep the feet well placed on terra firma even though the head and heart be poised in lofty flight. Practical and workable tactics could unfold surprising and intriguing results even though subtle, crafty phases seem uppermost and most alluring.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. HERMAN BUNDESON

UNDULANT fever is a disease which has appeared in many parts of the world under half a dozen different names—Malta fever, goat fever, Bang's disease, Mediterranean fever, and Rock fever.

A tricky infection caused by a germ known as brucella, it has as many disguises as aliases, imitating everything from a mild cold to a severe mental illness or even appendicitis.

Today we designate all of its many forms under one name, brucellosis, and recognize it as a growing problem in the United States, where it is estimated to attack some 350,000 people annually.

The germs of this disease are found in many animals and it is known to be prevalent among cattle, pigs and goats in numerous areas. Human cases apparently result from contact with infected animals or their products, no instance of direct spread of brucellosis from man to man ever having been reported.

The early symptoms of this disease resemble those of other acute infections. At the start, they may be so slight that they are overlooked or are confused with an attack of influenza. The symptoms clear up, but recurrence soon takes place.

In this disorder there is fever, but the pulse rate is slowed down. Market weakness is an outstanding feature, and it is likely to persist long after other symptoms have subsided. Chills and sweats may occur, and anxiety is apparent. Headache, backache and joint pains are likely to be present, as well as pain in the abdomen which may be so severe as to be mistaken for appendicitis.

After the acute stage of the disease has passed, the symptoms become milder. There is fever, weakness and indefinite pains. In the chronic form of the condition, the symptoms persist over long periods of time. Severe mental depression is not unusual, and the weakness is persistent.

In making the diagnosis, a careful study of the patient and his medical history is necessary.

Combinations of streptomycin and the sulfonamide drugs have been found useful in the treatment of brucellosis. The new antibiotic preparation known as aureomycin also seems to be effective. The combination of aureomycin and streptomycin has, to date, proved to be the most effective treatment of this condition in both man and animal.

In chronic cases, preparations of manganese have been used and reportedly with much benefit. Prevention of this disorder is extremely important. The avoidance of unpasteurized or unboiled milk is essential. Many patients contract the disease through contact with infected animals; thus the elimination of the disease in animals will, of course, aid in preventing its spread to human beings.

Answer: The cause of such stone formation is not known. This might be due to some infection, or possibly to a chemical change in the glands of salivary secretion.

Gold Mining In Alaska Is Science

District Youths Learn Operations Today Are Far Advanced

By Eugene Mueller of Salem and Robert Bay of Alliance.

ESTER CREEK, Alaska—After a number of these articles, it seems that we should tell you something of the technical geological and metallurgical problems that face the miner of placer gold, and how they are solved here at the Fairbanks Exploration division of the United States Smelting, Refining and Mining Co.

The problem at hand is the discovery and the recovery of gold. There are two main types of gold ore, one being quartz, in which the gold is firmly embedded, and the other being free gold.

Free gold, sometimes called alluvial gold, and more often placer gold, is not ingrained in any particular kind of rock; in fact, it does not appear in rock-form at all. It is this type of gold with which we here at USSR & M are concerned. The mining methods which we shall cite apply only to placer gold in or below ground that is permanently frozen. The discussion of placer mining may be divided into four headings; namely, exploration, thawing, stripping, and dredging.

Scientific Method

In the days following the gold rush of '98, prospectors went forth with picks, shovels, and an axe in their attempt to find gold. They would look for a spot where bedrock appeared close to the surface, dig down, and pan to see if it was worth staking for a claim. They had to prospect in this manner for science had not yet devised the more modern methods.

Today geophysical exploration, or prospecting, is carried on. The exploration of possible gold-bearing ground is performed by examination of a sample taken from the core of a diamond drill, which has been sunk a few feet beneath the surface of bedrock, the first permanently impervious layer of rock in the earth.

From the sample taken from the diamond drill an estimate can be made on the cost for removal of the overburden, as the ground overlying the gold is called. If the analysis of the gold content proves it economically possible to retrieve the gold, operations are continued.

Thawing and stripping are carried on simultaneously. The frozen overburden, which is black mud called muck, is thawed and washed away at the same time by hydraulic nozzles carrying a 3 to 4 inch stream of water at pressures varying from 60 to 110 lbs. per sq. inch.

Sometimes cold water thawing is performed by means of ¾ inch pipe driven into ground to bedrock. Cold water is pumped through these pipes continuously for 6 to 8 weeks, thereby thawing the muck. The old-time miners accomplished this same purpose by building a fire where they wished to dig, then digging as far as the fire thawed the ground.

Where Found

Only when the frozen earth has been thawed and washed away as muck is the cut ready to be processed for gold. On the surface of the prepared cut there is gravel and immediately beneath it, bedrock. A little gold may be found in the gravel, but most of it is lying freely on the surface of or extending in streaks several feet into the bedrock. An electrically-operated dredge is then floated into the cut.

A dredge is a kind of barge carrying a bucket line capable of digging 35 to 65 feet deep. The gold ore is dumped from the buckets onto a conveyor to a sluice box, which is a large inclined trough grooved like a washboard. Mercury is placed in these grooves. Since the gold is heavier than the rest of the ore, it sinks to the bottom and amalgamates with the mercury in the grooves of the sluice box. The dredge then emits the slag.

Railroad President Asks How To Run Business

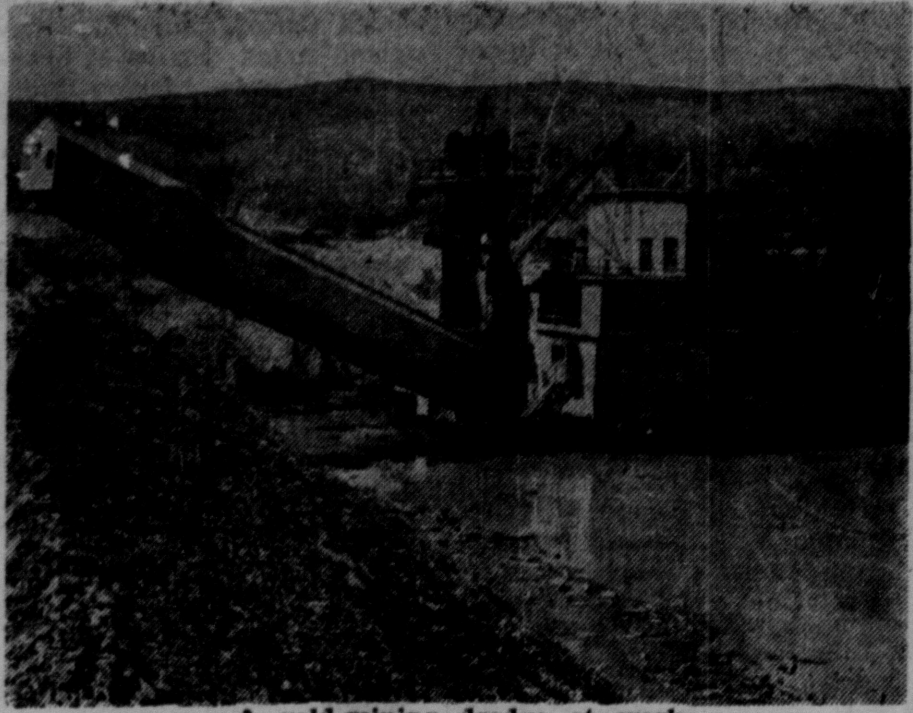

CLEVELAND—(UP)—Robert E. Woodruff, president of the Erie railroad, would like to know how to run a railroad.

Actually it hasn't come to that but he did put out a questionnaire in which he requested his employees to make suggestions in the hope of improving the service.

Woodruff asked the Erie workers to fill out the questionnaires and said, "Certainly the years of experience represented by all of our employees add up a wealth of experience in railroad." He wants to learn what the workers think of their jobs, bosses, working conditions, the company in general and many other things. They also are asked to put down what their neighbors think about the Erie.

Two-Yr.-Old Drowns

NEWARK, July 21 — Sammy Kaye Flanagan, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer D. Flanagan of Fallsburg, O., drowned last night in a water-filled ditch across the street from his home.

A gold-mining dredge at work called tailings. The gold is later separated from the mercury by distillation.

I, Gene, am a member of the "bull gang". The duties of the "bull gang" include the laying, or the tearing apart and resetting, of lengths of pipe so that the muck which is to be washed away will always be within the range of one of the large water-guns. We also tear down these gun installations and move them to new locations. Work on the "bull gang" is the least glamorous and probably the most difficult labor in camp.

I, Bob, also worked on the "bull gang" until one morning about a week ago. As I reported for work, the foreman approached me and asked how I would like to "go on nozzle".

Not accustomed to making snap decisions so early in the morning, I replied that it didn't make much difference to me. In this way I became a piper, which means that I operate one of the guns. I regret my sleepiness of that morning, for my job is a monotonous one, consisting of changing the direction of fire so that a maximum of muck will be washed away.

We are indebted to our friend from the next room, Dick Smith, for much of the technical material used in this article. Dick from near Harrisburg, Pa., is a mining student at the University of Alaska and is working this summer at USSR & M on a scholarship basis.

Thus we have presented a rough description of the method by which gold is torn from Alaskan ground, molded into bullion bricks, and again placed under the ground—this time in vaults at Fort Knox, Ky.

Sports Car Grand Prix Set For September

WATKINS GLENN, N. Y.—Wilbur Shaw, three-time winner of the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile race, has been invited to be honorary starter at the second annual sports car Grand Prix at Watkins Glen.

The race will be held Sept. 17, or in case of bad weather, Sept. 18, over 15 laps for a total of 99 miles. The Seneca Cup race of four laps also will be held the same day.

At a meeting of officials of the Sports Club Car Club of America and the Watkins Glen Chamber of Commerce, a spokesman for the New York Central railroad said the line would co-operate with the race to the utmost, even halting some of its trains, if necessary.

Frank Chase of Corning, N. Y., representing the railroad, said the Central also would furnish the three miles of rope necessary to rope off roads used in the race.

Mrs. Zealley Speaks
Before Church Women

Mrs. Harold Zealley, newly-elected secretary of the Federation of Salem Church Women, gave an inspirational talk when the Salvation Army Home league observed Family night Tuesday with a supper in Centennial park.

Using for her theme, "Open Windows," the speaker challenged her listeners to open the windows of their hearts toward God.

Fifteen families participated in the festivities.

Mrs. Clyde Linger, the league's secretary, was in charge of arrangements for the supper and the program.

Miss Slagle
Plans Troth

Miss Lera Slagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slagle, of Youngstown, former Salem residents, has chosen her attendants for her wedding at 7:30 p. m. Saturday to Ronald Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bush of Washingtonville.

The marriage will be solemnized by Rev. Harold L. Ogden in the Salem Methodist church with the pre-nuptial music scheduled to start at 7:10. Custom of open church will be observed.

Miss Marge Matthews of Kinsman, a Bowling Green university classmate of the bride-to-be, will be her maid of honor, while Mrs. Richard Slagle, of Washingtonville, her sister-in-law, will serve as matron of honor.

Another Washingtonville girl, Miss Ruth Brain, will be bridesmaid.

A sister and brother of the groom, Judy and Gary Bush, will be flower girl and ring bearer.

Gene Weikart, of Washingtonville, will be the best man, and Richard Slagle, brother of the bride, and Gene Morrow, both of Washingtonville, will usher.

Miss Janet Robinson, of Salem, will preside at the guest register and the wedding melodies will be sung by Mrs. Robert Buttermore of Damascus.

The rehearsal dinner for the wedding party and the parents and grandparents of the couple will be held at 7 p. m. Friday at Barnett's. The rehearsal hour is set for 8:30 in the church.

Mrs. Russell Smith
Tells of Trip

Mrs. Russell Moore gave a vivid description of her recent trip to England, France, Switzerland and South Wales when she was guest speaker at a meeting of the Wesleyan class of the Methodist church Wednesday evening in the church. Mr. and Mrs. Moore also attended the British Industrial fair in Birmingham, England. He was on a business trip.

Mrs. Moore added interest to her talk with an exhibit of pictures, gifts and souvenirs.

Miss Beatrice Maeder of Canton, formerly of Salem, conducted the devotions.

Hostesses were Mrs. Walter Gray, Mrs. Donald Mathews, Mrs. Howard Pardee, Mrs. Paul Miller, Mrs. Frank Sabol and Mrs. Eady Santee.

The August meeting has been cancelled.

Mrs. Merton West of Crete, Ill., and Mrs. H. P. Maeder of Canton were among the guests.

Mrs. Rebecca McFall
Honored At Reunion

Mrs. Rebecca McFall of Beaver Falls, Pa., who is in her 91st year, was the oldest relative in attendance at the 43rd annual reunion of the Groves family Sunday in Centennial park.

The Ralph Main family of Beaver Falls, with nine present, was the largest family represented.

Games afforded pleasure. There was a picnic dinner and supper. Mrs. Harvey Lottman and Mrs. Jerry Loudon were re-elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Approximately 75 attended from Salem, Cleveland and Farrell and Sharon, Pa.

Next year's reunion on July 16 will be at the same place.

SOMETHING NEW—Strictly for girls who hate to check their furs at the door, Lois Collier models the latest Hollywood creation—a mink blouse. It is banded with yards and yards of wild ranch mink.

Gardening Hints
Offered By Club

The Salem Garden center in the public library, sponsored by the Salem Garden club, offers suggestions to gardeners as follows:

"You can grow good tomatoes if you keep them free from insects and diseases.

"Lack of rain, coupled with the extreme heat has caused an unhappy leaf curl on tomato plants everywhere. This leaf curl is an indication that the foliage is transpiring water faster than the roots can supply it to the plant.

"The plants are not diseased and while spraying every week or so with a fungicide is advised to prevent early blight it will not help leaf curl—watering is the answer.

"Unwisely as the plants may seem, the curled leaves must not be removed as the plants need every bit of foliage to manufacture for the development of the tomatoes.

"One good soaking of the soil is worth a dozen light sprinklings. Moreover the tomato foliage will appreciate frequent wettings during periods of drought."

Mrs. Sangree Hostess

Chester Bowles And GOP Slug It Out In Connecticut

Former OPA Head Not Away From Excitement In New Post

By CARL J. LALUMIA
HARTFORD, Conn., July 21 (AP)—Life has lost none of its turbulence for Chester Bowles since he shifted from the Washington political scene to Connecticut.

He was sworn in last January as the state's first Democratic governor in eight years. Since then, he has been slugging it out with Republicans in a battle which, before it is over may dwarf some of his wartime troubles as federal OPA chief and economic stabilizer.

Each side blames the other for the political feuding.

Republicans assert it is all part of a Bowles plan to catch headlines in the hope that he may become the Democratic presidential nominee in 1952.

Bowles has hit back with the charge that Republicans are indifferent to the needs of the state; and determined, for political reasons, to wreck his program.

Has Troubles

Most of Bowles' troubles have been tied up with the legislature. Half of it, the house, is controlled by Republicans. The other half, the senate, is controlled by his own Democratic party.

From that set up have come so many sharp and at times tangled disputes that the Connecticut courts finally have been asked to step in to umpire some of them.

For example, Bowles, 48-year-old retired advertising executive, and house Republicans could not agree when to end a special session of the legislature.

As a result, even now, no one can say for certain whether the legislature is or is not in session.

Bowles says it is not. Republicans say it is. That is one of the disputes which the state Supreme court may have to settle.

The governor declared the special session ended by issuing a proclamation June 30. As far as anyone has been able to determine, that never had happened before in Connecticut.

Republicans immediately challenged his right to issue the go home order. To back up that challenge, the house held a two-hour session a week later, accused Bowles of acting like a dictator, and adopted a resolution attacking his proclamation as an "illegal exercise of executive power."

Then, in a fresh defiance of the gubernatorial proclamation, it recessed indefinitely, subject to the call of its speaker.

The Democratic controlled senate, accepting the governor's adjournment as final, stayed home that day. So did all of the house Democrats except one, Minority Leader John P. Cotter.

His chief role during the House proceedings was to protest that they were illegal. The house meeting, he asserted, was "merely a Republican caucus."

Whether the house proceedings were an official legislative session, as Republicans contend, or "merely a Republican caucus" may decide one of the disputes now awaiting a judicial opinion.

This controversy specifically involves two rival sets of judges battling for Connecticut's 66 municipal courts. One set, mostly Democrats, was named by Bowles as recess appointees to replace the old judges, most of them Republicans.

The governor claims the right to make the recess appointments on the ground that the legislature failed to enact a law fixing a specific term for the judges. Such legislation, he insists, is necessary under a new constitutional amendment which empowers him to appoint the judges subject to legislative confirmation.

Republicans contend gubernatorial recess appointments can be made only if the legislature is not in session. As far as they are concerned, the legislature is still officially on the job.

Next to the adjournment and judgeship tangles, a fight of many months over a new budget did most to point up the political differences between the governor and house Republicans.

Republicans proposed a budget which Bowles asserted would result in a deficit. The GOP intention, Democrats contended, was to charge the Bowles administration later with running the state into the red.

Bowles proposed a budget which Republicans asserted would enable him to claim credit for a big surplus come 1950.

That's the year when Connecticut will begin electing governors for four years instead of two.

The upshot of the fiscal battle was that the legislature ended its regular session on June 8 without approving a budget, thus setting another precedent for a state which prides itself as the "state of steady habits."

It was because of its failure to approve a budget that the governor recalled the legislature back for a special session on June 14.

Out of that session, finally came a budget — the same one originally proposed by Republicans.

Q's & A's

Q—When was DDT discovered?
A—This valuable insect-killer has come into widespread use only during the past decade. The chemical compound was first prepared in 1874 by Othmar Zeidler, a German. Its insecticidal properties were discovered in the 1930's by Paul Muller, a chemist in Switzerland. The first reports of its efficacy reached the United States in 1939.

Q—On a railroad what does the gondola carry?
A—A gondola or "gon" is a steel-sided, flat-bottom coal car.

Q—To what region is the horse-chestnut tree native?
A—The horse chestnut, which is a native to southeastern Europe, has been planted extensively throughout continental Europe, Great Britain and the United States. It was introduced into the United States in 1746 by Benjamin Franklin.

Q—How did John Quincy Adams dress for his inauguration?
A—John Quincy Adams was the first president to wear long trousers.

Q—How were the men who raised the United States flag on Mt. Suribachi, Iwo Jima selected?
A—The men who raised the flag on Mt. Suribachi were not especially selected for the task. The raising was done by men who happened to be on the spot.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sweet singers of the golden age of song are enjoying a fresh wave of popularity in the jukebox generation.

"The favorites are Enrico Caruso, John McCormick, and Alma Gluck," said Wally Butterworth, a radio disc jockey. "They rank in that order—just as they did in their own lifetimes."

Butterworth, 46, differs from the ordinary disc jockey in that he plays classical or semi-classical vocal records instead of the current groaners.

"Collecting old records is a tremendous hobby today," he said, "and some of them bring fabulous prices—up to $100 or more."

"Probably the rarest records in the world are seven made in Italy by Caruso in 1902 for the Zonophone company. I've seen collectors pay $180 apiece for copies, and I know of only one man who has all seven."

Butterworth, who entered radio in 1929 as an announcer, has a library of 5,000 records, one of the largest in the country. "Currently he is engaged in a nationwide search for lost or unpublished recordings by great singers of the past."

When he started his radio program here more than two years ago over a local NBC station, he expected it would hold only a nostalgic appeal for oldtimers. "But I was amazed at the way younger people reacted," he said. "Many of them had never heard voices of that quality."

Butterworth later held a series of evening record concerts, and found 42 per cent of those who attended were under 30 years of age.

"Many were curious to hear more of the music their parents knew and loved," he said.

Butterworth places the golden age of song between 1875 and 1921, the year Caruso died.

"Few people realize the singers of that time were every bit as popular as Bing Crosby is today," he said.

"Caruso made at least $3,500,000 out of records alone, and in the year after his death his estate earned $600,000 in royalties."

"More than 2,000,000 people bought John McCormick's record of 'I Hear You Calling Me,' made in 1912—and no one has ever sung it so well since. Alma Gluck's 1914 recording of 'Carry Me Back To Old Virginny,' sold 1,500,000 copies at $1.50."

Today the top salary at the Metropolitan opera is $750 a night, but Butterworth said Caruso was paid $2,500 a performance from 1903 to 1920. On one concert tour he made $10,000 a night for 20 nights.

"It was a golden age in more ways than one," said Butterworth. "But they don't have voices like that any more."

"They could have—but they don't. It's chiefly a matter of work. They've injected too many Hollywood features into the business. They want the sopranos streamlined."

"In the old days a singer would study for five to seven years before even daring to sing an opera in public. Now they study two years and figure they are ready for the Met."

To keep a green salad crisp add the dressing at the last minute and toss only enough to coat the greens with the mixture of vinegar and oil. If you want to vary a basic French dressing for the salad add a few tablespoons of catchup or chili sauce, a few diced anchovies, or a little crumbled blue or Roquefort cheese.

Fleckner Suspends Another Examiner

COLUMBUS, July 21—(AP)—Liquor Director Oscar L. Fleckner notified the state civil commission today of the 30-day suspension of George L. Thompson, a liquor permit examiner in the Cincinnati district office.

The suspension was for "disciplinary purposes." It began Tuesday.

Highway Director T. J. Kauer reported the discharge of James F. Scott, a superintendent in the Miami county maintenance and repair division. The discharge is effective Aug. 8.

Kauer charged Scott with political activity, neglect of duty, misfeasance and malfeasance. He said Scott had fired two men for political reasons and instructed a third man to vote the Republican ticket. Other charges against Scott included transportation of non-employees in a state car and leaving his job ahead of quitting time.

Dog Wins Honors

Shasta of Locust Crest, three-year-old Doberman Pinscher female, owned by Mrs. Gordon Simpson of Lisbon road, won honors at the Jamestown, N. Y., dog show recently. She was judged best of breed and best of the winners.

A younger dog, Rita, won the first prize in the Novice division. She repeated the same win at Erie the next day, with Shasta winning Reserve first place honors.

On Aug. 1 Mrs. Simpson will take her Champion Sig, male Doberman to Erie for a personal appearance on television. Rita also will be shown.

Metal Institute Officer

Howard Wolf, assistant to the president of Mullins Manufacturing Corp., was elected vice president of the Pressed Metal Institute, national association of metal stamping industry, at a convention meeting yesterday in Cleveland.

George Whitlock, Mullins president, was recognized for service to the industry last night at a banquet session when he was presented a certificate of merit. He was one of four former institute presidents receiving the honor.

Atlantic community involves all of those nations. This is an inescapable fact. There can be no doubt that the emergence of a threat to one of these nations would have been cause for some action on the part of the United States in order to deal with the situation. Our national security would appear to dictate such action, in my opinion.

Q. Do you believe the pact will contribute to world peace by deterring any would-be aggressor, or is there a likelihood that it will be regarded as a threatening gesture toward "encirclement of a non-participating nation?"

A. I feel certain that the Atlantic pact will contribute to world peace. The fact that an aggressor would be confronted by the combined efforts of those 12 nations should be considered as attacking any one of them, should exert a powerful deterrent effect. There should be no doubt in his mind as to the outcome of any conflict he might start by committing an act of deliberate aggression.

Favors Assistance

Q. Do you think a military assistance program on the scope of the $1,130,000,000 first-year plan already outlined will make any significant contribution to security in Europe? Or will it serve chiefly to bolster recipient nations against internal disorders?

A. Obviously the military assistance program outlined by the administration for the first year cannot provide the European Atlantic pact signatories with the means to defend themselves effectively against an overwhelming armed attack on their territory. It is and should be only supplementary to their own self-help effort.

Q. Do you believe the arms program will assist materially in meeting the objectives outlined by Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Gen. Omar N. Bradley of preserving the territorial integrity of western Europe in event of war, and thus avert an enemy occupation with later liberation?

A. The arms program I consider is important looking toward the preservation of the territorial integrity of western Europe. Every practical effort must be made toward insuring that, in the awful event of another war, the nations of western Europe would not be overrun, with the consequent necessity of later liberation.

Guest Soloist

William Foster, bass soloist of Youngstown, a member of the nationally-known American male chorus, will sing "Out of the Depths" at the 10:45 a. m. service Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Harold L. Ogden will preach on "The Things Your Faith Must Add" and the Haviland choir will sing "Listen to the Lambs."

NEW FRENCH SHIP SAILS FOR U. S.

LE HAVRE, France, July 21—(UP)—France made a signal bid for a return to a position of eminence on the high seas today when she launched the refurbished and proudly-decked Ile De France on her first post-war trip to New York.

In maritime circles it was the biggest ceremony since England sent the Queen Elizabeth back to passenger service in 1946.

To the people of France it was an historic event. To them it meant a further confirmation that France is resuming her place in the sun.

President Vincent Auriol, who received this correspondent and A. L. Bradford, United Press vice president and general European manager, beamed with pride when the Ile was mentioned. He assured me at the presidential palace in Paris shortly before the sailing that as a passenger on the "maiden voyage" I would find nothing wanting in what he described as "France all the way to New York."

The Ile will not be the greatest ship afloat. But according to officials of the French line who will make the crossing along with high-ranking French citizens, she will bow to no vessel for comfort, service and cuisine.

Among the first class accommodations are 30 suites, each consisting of a bedroom and sitting room. Twelve of them are apartments de luxe—each named for a famous French chateau and decorated by a well-known French artist.

In these, and in other accommodations, champagne corks began to pop long before the sailing hour. But there was little danger of the supply being exhausted aboard this 43,450-ton vessel.

Despite her elegance, the Ile has taken care that her major space is devoted, not to the white tie-and-tail passengers, but to the occupants of the cabin and tourist class.

Advance reports indicate the ceremonies on the other side will be complete with a whistle-blowing, water-spouting reception to mark the Ile's return to New York harbor on July 27.

Vacation Jobs Test Maturity

By ALICIA HART

High school and college girls who expect clouds of glory and easy money when they take a vacation job this summer had better prepare for the responsibilities and realities of the working world instead.

You may be just marking time, but the only thing your superiors will mark is the hour you amble in mornings and the hour you scout out.

If you're serious and really apply yourself, a vacation job can pay off in new skills: Salesgirls, for example, can develop poise and ease in handling people. You can learn the weight of a smile, a pleasant manner and a little applied psychology.

A job, even a temporary one, pays off in maturity: The teenager will have to cope with difficult problems, to make decisions and take responsibility for mistakes and failures.

You will learn lots of things: To take orders without back talk, on one hand, and show initiative on the other; that co-workers judge by results, not by good intentions. You'll learn also that faking facts might have rated "passing" in school, but will rate "failure" with the boss.

You might as well start job-hunting with the notion that the Cinderella legend has some flaws in it. By the end of your working summer you'll know for sure that the successful men and women around you got that way by means of solid work and extra effort with little or no help from a fairy godmother.

Takes Mt. Union Job

ALLIANCE, July 21—The appointment of Wolfgang Edelmann of Indianapolis as director of the Mount Union college band and orchestra was announced today by Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, college president. A graduate of Milwaukee State Teachers college, Wisconsin, with the bachelor of education degree and a major in public school music, Edelmann received the master of music degree from Northwestern university.

Will Don Old Costumes

WARREN, July 21—Old-fashioned costumes will be donated July 28 when the nearby village of Middlefield celebrates its 150th anniversary.

CIVIL SERVICE

The United States Civil Service commission today announced an examination for probational appointments to the position of savings and loan examiner. Other examinations also were announced, including those for instructors of dairying, power plant engineer, swine husbandry, culinary, electrical carpentry, steam-fitting, automotive mechanics and painting and decorating.

Application blanks and additional information are available from E. F. Ackelson, local secretary, board of U. S. Civil Service examiners, in the Salem post-office.

Sebring Camp Meeting Will Be Opened Tonight

SEBRING, July 21—Rev. Merne Harris of Chicago, traveling evangelist, will be the speaker at the opening service of the 45th annual session of the Sebring Camp meeting this evening. Meetings will continue through Sunday, July 31.

The daily service schedule includes meetings at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Young people will meet at 6:15.

Among the other workers are Rev. John H. Paul, associate editor of the Pentecostal Herald, and Prof. Willard Hallman, Mishawaka, Ind., song evangelist. Mrs. Edith Gallagher of Sebring will direct the children's work, assisted by Rev. Harris.

Rev. Paul Baxter, second vice president of the association, says improvements have been made at the camp grounds.

WASHINGTONVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ritchie and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Karacher of Salem have returned from a fishing trip at Rice lake, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wagner of Washington, Pa., were Sunday visitors in the home of Mrs. Laura Sweesy and sons.

Mrs. Iris DeJane recently entertained at a family dinner in honor of her son Jim's marriage to Geraldine Meure of Leetonia on July 8 at New Brighton, Ky., and his departure for the Navy July 15.

Miss Shirley DeJane accompanied friends from Salem on a tour through the southern states.

Mrs. Jerry DeJane is spending a week in the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chambers at Bowling Green.

Model planes powered by rubber bands were flown in France as early as 1871.

Boy Scout News

Following inspection of Boy Scout Camp McKinley yesterday Ray Corl of Weirton, W. Va., member of the regional executive committee, met with members of the County Camping and Activities committee.

He complimented them on the camp site, good food and an excellent program. Corl said there are many needs at the camp near Lisbon to do the job that should be done for the number of boys that should be served.

He added that the facilities at the camp are being used to the best advantage and nature and history have given the scout leaders much with which to work.

Good meals are the first fundamental of good camping and Camp McKinley has such meals, according to Corl. Harold Layman, assistant scout executive of the Fort Steuben council, accompanied Corl on the inspection. A report of the camp analysis will be turned in to regional headquarters at Cincinnati.

Members of the committee present included A. V. Smith, chairman, and J. R. Stratton, Jr., of Salem, J. E. Curry, William Southan and J. D. Bennett, Sr., of East Liverpool, C. D. Libby of Lisbon and John Hartwell, county scout executive.

Home-Grown Scenery Not Available In U. S. Today

By INEZ ROBB
NEW YORK, July 21—(INs)—As any American with a third-grade education knows, home-grown scenery is strictly for yokels, squares—or worse yet—for poets.

But the nation can take heart in the announcement that the recession is having no visible effect on outdoor advertising prospects for 1950.

In fact, the industry as a whole is confident that more, bigger and better billboards than ever will help blot any remaining traces of landscape along the nation's highways in another year or so.

The current fiscal year has been a lollapalooza for the outdoor advertising agencies, and 1950 promises to be just as good, if not better.

No Sights
It seems entirely likely that within a few years a sensitive city boy will be able to drive from coast to coast without any disconcerting glimpses of nature leering in the raw from field and stream. It will all be billboarded up, and a man's delicate sensibilities will not be jarred by all those trees and other hick green stuff.

Unadulterated American scenery can be very unwholesome, as no one knows better than I. Only a week ago, I had a terrible experience—drove 100 miles north of New York City into Dutchess county with nary a billboard to break the monotony of the journey.

On the Westchester county and New York state parkways, they are simply and unalterably opposed to progress. They do not allow billboards, dog wagons, juke boxes, hamburger stands, saloons, ice cream fountains, diners, old car junk yards, golf ranges, dine-and-dance emporiums or even good humor men.

They do not even allow you to throw paper plates, newspapers, bubble gum wrappers or bodies out of a car! And what I say is, what is the good of civilization if you can't take it with you?

It seems to me the AAA ought to warn innocent motorists they are leaving civilization behind them, once they hit these parkways. There is simply nothing to look at for mile after mile except the Hudson river—and, after all, what is that except a mess of water?—birds and bees flowers and trees, green mountains, lakes and streams.

Could Get Mixed Up
An innocent party who gets mixed up with all that scenery could die of starvation between dog wagons. Even then, he will have to get off the park system and hunt for his dog and wagon in the interior.

Even the gas stations are thirty miles apart, built of something called native field stone and half hidden in the scenery. It is we not for the familiar smell of eau de carbon monoxide, a motorist might well think he were in the wilderness.

So it is no wonder New Yorkers get the idea that Indians still lurk just north of the city limits, ready to put the old whammy on them. After all, when a man keeps driving and driving and never comes to a neon sign, even an Indian one would be welcome. Now there is none of this namby-pamby nonsense about scenery in New Jersey where the robbers have what is laughingly known to an assortment of artisans, carpenters, plumbers, electricians, painters and odd-job men as their country home.

New Jersey is an up-and-coming state and if there is any scenery in it, it has long since been covered up with billboards, as is right and proper.

Twice Weekly
We sail up and down N. J. State Highway 29 twice weekly to Flemington, and believe me, we have never yet been annoyed by any of that native scenery. If there are any vistas, views or panoramas, the billboard people have had the decency to obstruct, obscure or obliterate all traces of same. And what the billboard people have missed, the hot dog, hamburger, juke-box and dine-and-dance people have taken care of.

At least, there is something for the motorist to look at in New Jersey. And if, in the course of looking, he loses his appetite, he at least knows he has been protected from any entanglements with that outmoded stuff known as scenery.

Scenery—for jerks or for the stage. But keep that horse-and-buggy stuff off the super-highway, if you don't want to make a laughing-stock out of your state.

Larry Doby In Doghouse For Unexplained Dash For Plate As Indians Rallied In Eighth; Boston Loses To Chicago

Tribe Learns Yankee Sting Isn't Gone; Now Back 4-2 Games, One More To Go

CLEVELAND, July 21—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians put their star centerfielder, Larry Doby, in the doghouse today after his bold attempt to steal home against New York backfired.

Tribe Manager Lou Boudreau huddled with the Negro player for 10 minutes after the futile play last night and then announced he had fined him an undisclosed amount.

"It was not based only on that attempt to steal home tonight," Boudreau explained. "Larry has taken several unnecessary chances lately. This should make him more careful."

Doby couldn't be reached for his side, but Boudreau said "he didn't make any excuses. He just admitted he had made a mistake."

The futile dash took the steam out of Cleveland's eighth-inning rally and New York went on to win a 7 to 3 verdict. The victory boosted the Yankees' first place margin over Cleveland back to 4½ games and left them even in their three-game series.

Trailing 7 to 2, the Tribe had loaded the bases against Ed Lopat with none out. Mickey Vernon started the rally with a single, Doby got the same and Joe Gordon walked.

Then Joe Page relieved Lopat and promptly walked Boudreau, forcing Vernon home. After dishing out two balls to Bob Kennedy, Page conferred with Catcher Yogi Berra and the two then resumed their places.

Page had his back to third base and Berra was conversing with Umpire McGowan when Doby got underway.

He was half way to the plate before the two New York players appeared to realize what was happening. But they recovered quickly. Page fired the ball and Doby was out as he slid head first into the plate.

That ended the rally. Kennedy walked, but Jim Hegan struck out and Pinch-Hitter Ken Keltner grounded out.

"Guess that was what I needed to settle down," Page remarked afterward. "I couldn't believe it when I first saw him going and almost held onto the ball."

Thick-chested Berra admitted the play surprised him, but added: "Who'd think a guy would try a stunt like that? It worked out all right for us. I wish they'd try it more often."

Casey Stengel, the grinning Yankees' manager, didn't have any comment on Doby's effort, but he was obviously elated about the victory.

"Guess there's still some life in us," he chuckled. "The boys were hitting that long ball again."

But Steve O'Neill, the Indians' portly third base coach, wasn't at all happy. Although he had no part in Doby's strategy, the fans thought he did and they let him know about it.

Obviously irritated about the whole thing, he brushed aside reporters and left for home early.

The game drew baseball's largest night crowd of the year—75,340 fans.

Bob Feller opened for the Tribe, but went out in the third when the Yanks pushed over four runs. Four more hurlers followed him to the mound.

As usual, Joe DiMaggio was the big gun in the visitors' attack, hammering out a homer and a triple that produced four runs.

DOBY SKULL AND DIMAGGIO'S BAT COOL OFF TRIBE

Boston Drops To 8½ Games Behind Yanks; Sauer Hits Two Homers

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Larry Doby's "skull" and Joe DiMaggio's hitting have put the cooler on Cleveland's pennant drive—at least temporarily.

Doby drew a fine of an undisclosed amount last night after he was thrown out trying to steal home with the bases loaded and nobody out in the eighth inning. Doby's Cleveland mates trailed the league-leading New York Yankees 7-3 at the time. That turned out to be the final score.

Lefty Joe Page, who had just replaced "Steady Eddie" Lopat was having his troubles. He walked Manager Lou Boudreau on four straight pitches to force in a run. He hadn't found the plate in two tosses to Bob Kennedy. Then it happened.

Doby broke for the plate as Page walked back toward the resin bag. The pitcher whirled and threw to Catcher Yogi Berra, who tagged Doby as he dove head first across the plate. Page proceeded to walk Kennedy. Then he found his stuff to fan Jim Hegan and make Pinch Hitter Ken Keltner ground to Bobby Brown.

There seemed to be no excuse for Doby. Third Base Coach Steve O'Neill didn't send him in, although the crowd of 75,340 booed him. Doby's club trailed by four runs. It definitely was not any situation for a steal.

DiMaggio, who lifted the Yanks past Boston when they threatened in late June, drove in three runs with a triple and homer and scored twice as the Yanks again stretched their lead to 4½ games.

The Boston Red Sox dropped 8½ games behind the leaders by bowing to the Chicago White Sox, 8-7. The White Sox won in the ninth on a triple by George Metkovich, two intentional passes and Eddie Malone's outfield fly, scoring Metkovich.

Detroit pushed over three runs in the eighth to shade Washington, 6-5. Johnny Lipon's squeeze bunt single scored Hoot Evers with the winning run. Evers led the attack with three singles off Loser Mickey Harris.

Brooklyn lost a full game of its advantage in the National. The St. Louis Cardinals clipped Brooklyn's margin to 2½ games by a 10-inning night game decision over the Boston Braves, 6-4, after the Dodgers lost an afternoon 8-6 verdict to the onrushing Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ralph Kiner lowered the boom on the Brooks, driving in five runs with home runs Nos. 25 and 26. His second homer came in the top of the ninth with two men on and Brooklyn leading, 6-5.

Lou Klein, one of the three Cards who returned to organized ball from the Mexican league, belted a two-run double off the left field wall that broke up the Boston game in the 10th inning. The Braves routed Howie Pollock with four runs in the second inning.

Hank Sauer drove in all the Chicago Cub's runs with two homers and a triple in their 11-inning, 4-3, victory over the Phils. Sauer, who hit only four homers for Cincinnati, now has 14 as a Cub and 18 for the year. His triple off Reliever Curt Simmons scored Andy Pafko who singled in the eleventh.

The New York Giants set a new major league consecutive inning scoring record while whipping Cincinnati, 5-1. By scoring in each of the first three innings, they extended their streak to 14 innings. The old record was 12, set by the Giants in 1923.

Philadelphia at St. Louis in the American league was postponed because of wet grounds.

Millville vs. Leetonia

Millville will play the Leetonia Tigers baseball team at 6 p. m. Friday at East End Athletic park.

OLD FOLKS—Orie Arntzen won 14 straight games, or all he pitched, for Albany of the Eastern League this season. Records show the Cedar Rapids right-hander to be 40.

Graziano, Fusari To Fight Sept. 14 Battle

NEW YORK, July 21—(UP)—Rocky Graziano, ex-middleweight champion, and Charlie Fusari, an outstanding young welterweight contender, were scheduled to sign today for a 10-round bout at Yankee stadium on Sept. 14.

It will be Graziano's first important bout since he lost the 160-pound crown to Tony Zale at Newark, N. J., in June, 1948. Since then the Brooklyn slugger has had but two recent tune-up matches. Rocky knocked out each opponent in the second round.

The tune-up opponents were Bobby Claus and Joe Agosta. Graziano belted out Agosta at West Springfield, Mass., Monday, but suffered a gashed left brow when accidentally butted in the first round.

Cleveland Browns Off To Training Camp On Monday; New Men Out

CLEVELAND — The champion Cleveland Browns, 51 strong, will report to Coach Paul Brown on July 25th and 26th at their training camp in Bowling Green, Ohio.

In the receiving line will be the veteran Brown assistants Blanton Collier, Fritz Heisler, Dick Gallagher, and the new member of the coaching staff, Weeb Ewbank, formerly head football coach of Washington University.

Among the newcomers seeking end berths will be Bill McPeak, University of Pittsburgh; and Zeke O'Connor, a former Notre Dame boy who was obtained from the Buffalo Bills on a straight trade this spring.

Zeke is 6'4" and his 220-pounds fits in nicely with Brown's conception of a rugged end. Bill McPeak captained Pitt last year, is 6'1½" and goes at 205 pounds. McPeak is an exceptional pass receiver and should prove a good target for Otto.

North Carolina university's Ted Hazelwood, Texas Mines' Ray Evans and Derrell Palmer, former New York Yankee captain, are all looking towards winning one of the six tackle posts. Chubby Grigg, Lou Groza and Lou Rymkus will all be back.

Dave Templeton, Ohio State's 1948 captain and guard, will be up for one of the guard positions. Agase, Gaudio, Houston, Humble, Ulinski and Willis have all signed their contracts and will appear at camp on the 26th.

At center Tommy Thompson, William & Mary's great redhead, should strengthen the middle, and the quarterbacking will remain in the capable hands of Otto Graham and Cliff Lewis.

Among the halfback aspirants will be Mike Cannavio, Gene Dericotte, Warren Lehr, Tom Zaborac, Huey Keeney and James Dougherty. They will bump heads with veterans Boedeker, Cowan, James, Parseghian, Sensabaugh and the Jones boys.

At fullback, Ed Sustersic who failed to make the grade last year only because of a broken arm, is back and if he approaches anywhere near last summer's performance, will spell off Marion Motley.

With the limiting of 32 men to the squad, Brown will probably carry six ends, six tackles, five guards, three centers, two quarterbacks, seven halfbacks and three fullbacks. Of the 52 men reporting to camp, 24 will be newcomers to the Cleveland squad.

The Browns training season is somewhat shortened this year due to the fact that the league's regular schedule has been pulled in one week. This coupled with pre-season games in August at Toledo, Cleveland and Akron, means that the squad will be in for a short but intensive five week training period.

Cleveland will open their home schedule against the Baltimore Colts on Sunday, September 11th. Their opening game, however, is with the Buffalo Bills on Labor day, September 5th.

Battering Buckeyes Loom Large On '49 Grid Scene

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK, July 21—(UP)—The battering Buckeyes of Ohio State loomed large today on this fall's college football horizon as a likely candidate for Big Nine honors and the mythical national championship.

As the grid training season approached, Notre Dame's perennial candidacy seemed destined for rough treatment and Michigan's two-time Wolverines appeared to lack the old depth which carried it to two conference championships and a share in national honors.

Kent Assistant Changes Posts

NORMAN, Okla., July 21—(AP)—George Lynn, Freshman football coach at Kent university, today was named assistant coach at the University of Oklahoma.

Oklahoma officials made the announcement here after talking by telephone with Head Coach Bud Wilkinson, who is in Chicago coaching the college All-Stars for their game with the professional Philadelphia Eagles.

The 28-year-old Lynn will replace Walter Hargheheimer, who resigned recently to accept a similar spot at the University of Southern California. His salary here was not announced but Hargheheimer's was thought to be about $6,500.

Lynn has been at the Ohio university the past two years. He will come here after the summer term has ended.

He was quarterback and captain of the 1942 Ohio State team, which won the Big Ten conference title. He was with the New York football Giants briefly in 1943 and then entered the Navy for three years, being discharged as a lieutenant J.G.

Walters Knew His Heart Was Right When Reds Lost

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — The Cardinals had a pair of young outfielders with Rochester in 1941, and it was difficult to make a choice between them.

Branch Rickey, then head of the far-flung St. Louis National League organization, believed he had the parent club's flycatching problem solved for years in the left-hand hitting Stanley Musial and the right-hand hitting Erv Dusak.

Dusak was a remarkable outfielder with a rifle for an arm. If there is a weakness in Musial it is that his arm could be stronger.

Stan the Man injured it leading the Florida State League pitchers in winning percentage with 18 and 5 in his third year out.

So Dusak was slated to succeed the great Terry Moore in center field.

MUSIAL came up in the fall of 1941 to remain, and thrice lead National League hitters to be the circuit's most valuable player as many times.

Dusak was sent back to the Red Wings, and when he returned from three years of military service in 1946, home runs at opportune times earned him the nickname of Four Sack Dusak.

Dusak gave some indication that he would live up to his early promise in 1947, but Eddie Dyer gave up on him as a hitter and outfielder when his average dropped to .209 last season.

It was around June 1 of this year that it was decided Dusak should try a Bucky Walters, attempt to salvage something out of his extraordinary arm. So back to Rochester he went as a pitcher.

DUSAK, the last time we saw the records, had won seven and lost four.

As you might have heard, he turned in a one-hitter against the league-leading Buffalo outfit the other day.

"Erv is coming back to us as a pitcher sure pop, perhaps this fall," says Manager Dyer of the Red Birds.

"He's exceptionally fast, and has good stuff, but what pleases me most is the quickness and ease with which he adapted himself."

"They tell me Dusak knows his way around in the box, and what is equally important he likes to pitch."

So here we have Dusak reversing Musial's rapid rise to the Cardinals going the long way from the outfield to the mound.

SPEAKING of Bucky Walters, the most famous of pitching converts is still managing the Cincinnati club with his ticker ticking regularly.

A month has elapsed since Walters was reported resigning the management of the Redlegs because of a heart ailment. According to Gabe Paul, assistant to President Warren Giles, a radio announcer heard this wild rumor in a Cincinnati pub, and spread it as information direct from the feed box.

"If I had heart trouble," laughs Bucky Walters, "the old pump would have conked out on our last road trip, when the Reds lost 13 of 15."

DEPARTMENT OF MUSING
Random shots regarding softball . . .
The complete explosion of the Amvets softball team Monday puts an entirely new hue on the American loop . . . It's wide open again and chances are the Amvets, without John Zines, won't climb right back up to the top . . . His absence Monday certainly was costly, although the team itself didn't do too well in the field.

Our nomination for the "prettiest" pitching form in the leagues would go unquestionably to Wayne "Muscles" Russell . . . Russell's clever little kick with his left foot just before firing is very unique . . .

Incidentally, Russell's fast ball can compare favorably with any in the leagues . . . It's odd, too, that he never looks at a batter again after the first glance before his wind-up . . .

This is no new discovery, but those lights at West End park aren't the brightest in the world . . . Some of those fast balls Monday haven't been seen yet . . .

Managers in the two leagues haven't shown any speed in filling their All-Star selections . . . To date not a single one is in the loop secretary's hands . . .

There should be a big sale this season for that All-Star game . . . It is certainly a worthwhile project and deserves support . . . The league didn't ask for money last year, only going after it when the fund is at rock bottom . . .

DEPARTMENT OF INFO
This is not a sales talk, it's just sound, sage advice.

Fans intending to be regular spectators at the Salem High school football season this year had better get downtown and purchase those season books.

From all indications this is going to be one of the most attractive home seasons offered in Salem for many a moon. And the team, if it lives up to the hopes of a lot of fans, is going to be well above the Ben Barrett average, which, you may recall, is mighty high.

Season ducks have been on sale at the usual downtown outlets for more than a month now and the sale has been unusually brisk. Fred Cope reports that he has more tickets to place on sale as soon as the rest are gone. The supply, however, is limited as to quality, as some of you well remember from past seasons.

The tickets have been there all summer and will be right up until first game time. Don't complain that you weren't warned!

ODDS AND ENDS
In time for the Ohio All-Star game at Massillon on Aug. 13, a Saturday night, the Massillon High school Athletic association is planning to have new lights installed . . . When one thinks of the fine system already at Massillon it seems somewhat of a puzzle what the improvement could be . . . The new system, they report, will use 150 lamps, more than any other stadium in Ohio used only for football . . . Leave it to Massillon . . .

Czech Tennis Stars
Are Political Exiles
GSTAAD, Switzerland, (AP)—Jaroslav Drobny and Vladimir Cernik, Czechoslovakia's foremost tennis stars, became political exiles today and announced they would flee to the United States.

Rejecting a Czech government order to return immediately to Prague, the two players said they would finish out the Swiss National championships and remain here until determining their next move.

They will seek help from the U. S. Lawn Tennis association in getting to America, they announced, as special precautions were taken to see that they are not molested.

Blanchard To Play
CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 21—Felix (Doc) Blanchard, former Army All America fullback, has announced he will play professional football this season with the Independent Charlotte Clippers.

Blanchard, a lieutenant in the Air Force, is stationed at Shaw Field, Sumter, S. C., about 120 miles from here. He said his military duties would allow him to play weekends. His superiors have no objection.

STRANAHAN PLAYS
FOUR-BALL EVENT
FOR BEN HOGAN
By FRITZ HOWELL
TOLEDO, July 21—(AP)—Frankie Stranahan, Toledo's top-flight amateur—first simon pure ever to fire in the Inverness four-ball matches—is shooting just for fun in the $15,000 event which starts today.

The youthful star is substituting for Ben Hogan as partner of Jimmy Demaret, and any portion of the prize melon won by the Demaret-Stranahan duo will be split by Demaret and Hogan, winners of the birdie barrage in 1941-46-47-48.

Today's pairings for the opening matches of the seven-round four-day tourney were:
Freddie Haas-Dave Douglas vs Cary Middlecoff-Jim Ferrier; E. J. (Dutch) Harrison-Jim Turnesa vs Sam Snead-Dick Metz; Bob Hamilton-Chick Harbert vs Lloyd Mangrum-Johnny Palmer, and Clayton Haefer-Skip Alexander vs Demaret-Stranahan.

Snead got in through a substitute road, too, a move which started a large argument.

Bobby Locke, South African who recently won the British open, had been signed to appear as the partner of Metz. However, Locke decided to stay on the other side after winning the British classic, delaying his return to America by a month or more.

S. J. McGiveran, Inverness tourney chairman, said he had not yet heard personally from Locke that he would not be on hand, but had "read it in the papers, and had heard from a British golf official."

All the programs had been printed, bearing Locke's name, and McGiveran lodged a stinging protest with the PGA over Locke's default.

Radioactive Shots Are Helpful To Oranges

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — Two University of Pittsburgh scientists believe that spraying oranges with radioactive phosphorus might prevent the fruit from spoiling.

Drs. Erston V. Miller and Jerome J. Wolken based their report on a four-month experiment which showed that oranges injected with radioactive phosphorus, which is cheap, resisted rot caused by two disease-producing fungi.

The report, outlined in the official publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, noted that the exploding phosphorus apparently knocked out the ability of the fungus to spoil oranges. However, the chemical did not halt the growth of the fungus, one of the biggest problems confronting fruit growers.

Birds Can Outrun Autos. Wildlife Study Shows

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(UP)—The Missouri conservation commission has determined that the flight speed of game birds was as fast or faster than the pace of modern automobiles.

The commission estimated the normal speed of doves at 40 miles per hour; quail, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, mallard, black duck, spoonbill, pintail, wood duck, 50; Canada geese and brant, 45; greenwing teal, 79; red head, 42; bluewing teal, 89; and canvasback, 72.

The state agency said authorities had not been able to determine how much faster the birds can fly when frightened.

Such speeds, a commission spokesman said, are "no doubt much safer" than on the ground.

Higher Learning For Top Army Brass Spreads Unification Into Golf Game

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. — (NEA)—Tuition for "cross education of the admirals and generals" comes dear at the Greenbrier, one of the nation's swankiest and most expensive resort hotels.

"Cross education" was Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's own term for this meeting of big brass. It was his idea that getting the top military minds away from the Pentagon tensions and together in a more convivial atmosphere will help them to forget their feuds.

Much more of this rich brand of higher learnin', however, and the Joint Chiefs of Staff will go bankrupt.

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations; General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, and General Omar N. Bradley, Chief of Staff of the Army, were the key participants in this work-play session for about 15 top officers.

Their billet was the hotel's Presidential Suite, which regularly goes for $225 a day without food, which was another $16 per day per person. These plush accommodations include five bedrooms, two living rooms, baths, a kitchen and dining room.

Other facilities on this palatial layout are just as expensive. According to the hotel's rate schedule, golf costs $3 per day per person, riding is $3 for the first hour and $2.50 for each additional hour. Swimming is 75 cents per person. Badminton, archery, horse shoes, shuffleboard and croquet are free, but none of the military paid much attention to those diversions. Golf is their favorite sport.

These prices created a minor problem for the armed services bookkeepers who had to balance the accounts when this wing-ding was over. Technically, all but Denfeld, Vandenberg and Bradley should have been getting along on $7 per day. That's the government's allotment for employees and military men when they are out of town on business. The three exceptions, because they are the top men in their services, get an additional $4,000 per year for such expenses.

Incidental expenses of the meeting included air transportation for everyone to the hotel, two flights a day from the Pentagon with papers to be signed, and such things as the cost of one man at the hotel all the time in charge of handling special telephone connections.

This meeting set a precedent in the away-from-the-Pentagon-strain series. The first two were at Naval installations, at Key West, Fla., and Newport, R. I. It's easy to see that this non-military atmosphere was more in line with what Johnson had in mind, however. During a typical day business took up two or three hours in the morning. These were secret meetings. After that the conference took off to one of the hotel's three golf courses. Only Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Director of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, doesn't play golf. But he is a whiz on the tennis court.

Whatever the total cost of this relaxing and refreshing meeting finally adds up to, if it "cross educates" the generals and admirals toward better unifications, Secretary Johnson will consider it highly worthwhile.

Highland Busybodies

When the Highland Busybodies 4-H club met recently at the home of Alice and Ida Farmer, Teegarden rd., the members responded to roll call by giving a good fire rule.

Plans were made for a picnic Sunday at Guilford lake.

Jennie Mozina was a guest.

The July 27 meeting will be at the home of Violet Paulun, Teegarden rd.

New Garden Jr. Farmerettes

The eighth meeting of the New Garden Junior Farmerettes was held last Wednesday at Beverly Sier's.

Camping plans were discussed and a sewing demonstration was given by Esther Stout, while the hostess told about pie baking. Lunch was served and the meeting today will be at the home of Ruth Hays.

Pork Prices Rise Two To 10 Cents Pound; Will Hold

By The Associated Press
Pork prices climbed two to ten cents a pound during the week in many of the nation's marketing centers.
Frying chickens, eggs and choice tomatoes also were higher, while price declines were restricted largely to a few produce items in good local supply.
Market spokesmen blamed the higher pork prices chiefly on seasonally light receipts of meat. The biggest advances were in the so-called "warm weather" cuts which take relatively less cooking than other items.
The price hikes had been expected following a sharp rise at the wholesale level last week. Incidentally, live hogs at Chicago early this week brought the highest top price since last November.

Will Stay Level
Meat buyers said pork probably would remain close to present price levels until fall, but that prices might ease sharply by November. Iowa, the country's number one hog producing state, produced a record crop of piglets last month—eight per cent above the previous peak in 1943. Marketing of the spring hog crop may get under way as early as September this year, and cattle growers meeting this competition may well start trimming prices late next month.
Sirloln was up a few cents a pound in some markets this week but most beef and veal cuts held steady. Lamb was irregularly higher.

Advances of three to eight cents a dozen on top grade eggs were concentrated in hot-weather sections where high temperatures reduced production and increased the difficulty of keeping quality high.

Poultry prices continued their moderate climb which began late in June, and this week sold two to six cents a pound higher than last. Growers in the east, especially, were reported to have trimmed production sharply following the long period of declining prices last spring.

Howard C. Pierce, research director for the A & P food chain told newsmen at the international Baby Chick association convention in St. Louis this week that housewives may soon have to change their cooking habits to keep pace with improvements in chicken growing.
"Birds now are being produced that weigh four or five pounds instead of two or three pounds at 12 weeks of age," he said.

Classify Chickens
"It has been the custom to classify chickens by weight: broilers weighing up to 2½ pounds, fryers up to 3½ and anything over that was a 'roaster.' But with the newly developed chickens, a bird weighing as much as an old-time roaster can be young and tender enough to be broiled or fried to suit the individual taste."

Pierce organized the national chicken-of-tomorrow program to enlist growers to develop superior meat-type chickens. He estimated 20,000,000 of the new-type birds are going to market this year.
Lower in price on most produce counters this week were lettuce, snap beans, cabbage, green corn, cucumbers, peaches, peas and watermelon.
Although rains broke the long drought in some growing areas last week, eastern markets were

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—There's a low rumble in congress again about raising minimum wages. But whether congress will really do anything about them, before quitting for the summer and the rest of 1949, is something else. If nothing happens, it will be another campaign promise of the Democrats and President Truman unfulfilled by congress.

This is the background: In 1938 congress passed the minimum wage law. Under that law people working in certain kinds of businesses had to be paid: At least 25 cents an hour until 1939, then 30 cents an hour until 1945, and 40 cents an hour after 1945.

THAT LAW HASN'T been changed since 1938. So the 40 cents an hour, reached in 1945, is still the lowest wage that can be paid people in certain kinds of business.

These businesses were certain firms doing business across state lines. For example: Lumber, tobacco, leather, clothing, furniture, food products. Congress was able to pass the law covering them because the government controls interstate commerce and, since their business crossed state lines, they were in interstate commerce.

But the law didn't cover, for instance, a local drug store that did business entirely within a state. In addition, congress said that some businesses which did do business across state lines were not under the law. For example:

Farming, fishing, airlines, and retail outlets like department stores. So in all those not covered by the law the employers could pay below the minimum set by the law.

The law was intended to set a floor under wages, or at least under the wages paid by a lot of businesses.

But living costs have risen greatly since 1938 when the law was passed and since 1945 when 40 cents an hour became the lowest wage the covered firms could pay.

SIX TIMES IN the past three years President Truman has asked congress to take notice that living costs have risen and to raise the minimum wage from 40 cents an hour to 75 cents.

About 22,600,000 people are now covered by the law which requires that they be paid at least 40 cents an hour. But of that number only about 1,500,000 are receiving less than 75 cents an hour.

Those receiving less than 75 cents an hour are mostly in such businesses as lumber, tobacco, apparel, furniture, food products, wholesale trade.

President Truman and his advisers wanted congress not only to raise the present minimum from 40 to 75 cents an hour but to spread the law to cover a number of businesses not now covered, particularly places like department stores, chain stores and hotels.

They figure that would bring at least another 5,000,000 workers under the protection of the law and give all of them at least 75 cents an hour. It's been estimated that all but 900,000 of the additional 5,000,000 are now receiving at least 75 cents an hour.

What's the idea behind this? Labor and President Truman's advisers urge congress to place a higher floor under wages. They argue that it will create more purchasing power among workers and give more of them fairer treatment.

A study of New York State fiscal organizations shows that one of every three dollars in bank deposits in the U. S. is reported by New York banks.

LITTLE JOE MAKES MONTE CARLO VISIT

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, July 21—(AP)—Little Joe from Kokomo came to Monte Carlo today.

Lillian Moore, platinum blonde American dancer billed here as "one of the most beautiful blondes in New York," tossed out the dice for the first time, and the game of craps officially became part of the world-famed Monte Carlo gambling casino. Miss Moore threw a ten (or Big Joe) and failed to make her point.

Manning the table was Albert Jauffret, for 35 years a croupier at the Casino before the directors sent him to America to study the gentle art of craps shooting.

Now his title is "Professor De

L'Ecole De Craps" (professor of the Craps school).

Jauffret became a craps shooting professor by studying the game for three months in Toledo, Cincinnati, Las Vegas, Reno, Boise and Sun Valley.

"We have adopted the Idaho system for Monte Carlo," Jauffret said, "because the betting isn't as complicated."

The word "corn," used to refer to "maize" in the United States, generally means "wheat" in Great Britain and "oats" in Scotland, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Deny Italy's Pact Entrance Is Illegal

LONDON, July 21—(AP)—Russia accused the three big western powers today of causing Italy to violate her peace treaty by inviting her into the North Atlantic alliance. Britain denied it and an Italian foreign office spokesman said the Russian charge was "absurd and ridiculous."

WASHINGTON, July 21—Secretary Acheson today described as "utterly without foundation" a Russian protest that Italy's membership in the Atlantic alliance would violate the Italian peace treaty.

The Secretary of State told a news conference he had received the Soviet protest only today. Moscow sent a protest also to the Italian, British and French governments.

Britain already had denied the Soviet contention.

Italy has signed the North Atlantic alliance, but has not yet ratified it.

Acheson said the Russian argument in the case of Italy like other Soviet objections to the treaty, assumes that the treaty is directed against Russia.

Acheson said that is not the case and the American government has said many times that the treaty is purely defensive.

LAUSCHE STAND ON OATH BILL IS CRITICIZED

Mayor Rhodes of Columbus Goes After Lausche; Claims Insincerity

COLUMBUS, July 21—(AP)—The mayor of Columbus for the second time in a week, today accused Gov. Frank J. Lausche of "insincerity," this time on the issue of loyalty affidavits for all public employees in Ohio.

Mayor James A. Rhodes declared Governor Lausche's intervention blocked Ohio state action on house Bill 88 which would have required every public employee to swear that he was not a member of a subversive organization.

Asked for a comment, the governor said he had none.

Rhodes said in a prepared statement:

"H. B. 88, supported by every veterans organization in Ohio, was headed for senate passage until the governor decided it should not go out for a vote."

Died In Committee

The bill, passed by the house, died in a senate committee.

Rhodes pointed out the City of Columbus already has such a law, effective today.

Mayor Rhodes, in an attack on the governor's anti-gambling drive last week, accused the state's chief executive of "insincerity." He added that the governor had the statutory authority to close gambling establishments. On the failure of the loyalty oath bill to pass the senate, Rhodes stated:

"Ohio definitely would have had a loyalty law at the present time if Lausche had not intervened as the bill moved toward completion and was about to be reported out. This is another evidence of the governor's insincerity and legislative leader."

The mayor added: "When the legislative adjournment deadline drew near, the word went out to kill H. B. 88. The message to keep the house-approved bill in committee came from the governor's office."

Swing The Axe

"Sen. Margaret Mahoney and Sen. Howard Metzbaum of Cleveland, and Sen. Emmett Guthrie of Coshocton swung the axe."

"Our many veterans organizations are disgusted with the treatment the administration gave the anti-Communist bill. Like us, they want to know:

"1. If public employees cannot swear allegiance to their own country, why should they be allowed to work for the people government protects?"

"2. Why should the taxpayer be put in the position of financing the Communist or any other subversive movement by offering subsistence to its agents."

"If he (the governor) looks at the situation honestly, he can redeem himself (at a special legislative session), by insisting that a new loyalty law, or a reinstated H. B. 88, will be allowed to go through the legislature minus any administrative roadblocks."

Pennsylvania produces more ice cream than any other state. The Keystone state turns out about 73,740,000 gallons each year.

Streetlight Smash Is Costly Pastime

MIAMI, Fla., July 21—(UP)—The beautiful streetlight breaker of Coconut Grove wondered today if her BB-gun antics were worth the fine and suspended sentence she received after battling two policemen who stopped her fun.

Mrs. Patricia Blatt, 22, a statuesque Irish-American, told police she shot out streetlights "to win a bet from my sister" and because they "shine in my window at night."

She and her sister, Mrs. Jean A. Dimler of New York, were bicycling home Monday after breaking out the lights when police, summoned by neighbors, stopped them for questioning.

The officers said Mrs. Blatt readily admitted taking potshots at the lights, but when her sister fainted during the questioning, she began berating them.

"She made a wreck out of me," Patrolman Frank Miguel said in court. He said Mrs. Blatt slapped him nine times and kicked him unconscious during the fracas.

vigorously before being quieted. Mrs. Blatt was fined $15 and given a 15-day suspended jail sentence. Her sister was released after the officers testified she was unconscious during the fracas.

Labor Organizes To Defeat Taft

WASHINGTON, July 20—(UP)—Major labor unions have set up a five-member strategy committee in Ohio to blueprint their all-out drive to defeat Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio next year, it was learned today.

The committee, which will work for a pooling of labor's resources, including money and manpower, in the campaign against Sen. Taft, includes Jacob Clayman, Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO council; Phillip Hannah, Cleveland, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Federation of Labor; Clyde Spangler, Toledo, representing the machinists unions; and Ronald Owen, Columbus, a district official of the United Mine Workers.

Establishment of the committee was disclosed as the American Federation of Labor's league for political education opened a two-day conference here. Joseph D. Keenan, director of the league, disclosed that the committee had been set up but declined to reveal names of the committee members.

The co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor law heads the list of congressmen whom the AFL wants to retire to private life next year.

Others include Republican Sens. Homer E. Capehard of Indiana; Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri; Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa; Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado; Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin; and Milton R. Young of North Dakota.

Operator Robbed

SANDUSKY, July 20—Sam Spino, former owner of the Terrace club, was robbed yesterday of $3,400 after being beaten, bound and gagged, police reported. The loot included a two-carat diamond ring worth $3,000, police said.

Parenthood and Snakes Don't Mix, Apes Find

NEW MARKET, Va.—(UP)—A pair of African baboons were living peacefully on a farm near here without any complications until they became parents of a baby baboon.

Now, attendants say, the baboons have become highly nervous and may have to leave the farm.

The farm is the Childress rattlesnake farm, which has one of the largest collections of rare and poisonous snakes in the country, including king cobras.

The adult baboons, the attendants said, are afraid their youngster will play with the snakes.

U.S. Cities Increase Pension Benefits

CHICAGO—Retirement or pension plans are in effect for municipal employees in 981 American cities, according to the International City Managers' association.

In the last five years the number of cities with retirement plans covering all their employees has almost doubled, the association said, rising from 341 to 649.

During the same period, the association said, the number of cities belonging to state-administered plans rose from 250 to 418. A survey of cities with more than 100,000 population indicates that 91 per cent provide retirement systems for some or all of their non-school employees.

Champion Smoke Eater Goes In For Alarms

BOSTON—Benjamin M. Ellis, who claims to be the nation's No. 1 "spark," even has a fire alarm gong in his bedroom.

The 56-year-old fire appliance company executive says he has witnessed 43,202 fires from Alaska to Florida since 1901. They involved total damage or around $110,000,000.

Ellis' five-story home on Beacon st. has a fire alarm gong on each floor.

First Iron Warship Will Be Scrapped

ERIE, Pa.—Plans are being made to junk the 106-year-old U.S.S. Wolverine, the world's first iron warship.

Various organizations, including Henry Ford's Dearborn museum, have tried to get possession of the vessel, but the Erie Foundation for the Wolverine failed to raise the thousands of dollars needed for restoration and decided to dismantle the ship.

The Wolverine's keel was laid in Erie in 1843 and she maintained order on Lake Erie for 80 years. The vessel was taken off active duty several years ago and docked for the last time at Presque Isle.

Sleeping Baby Drowns On Bottle of Milk

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(UP)—Doctors found a new cause for parental when a Memphis baby was drowned on a bottle of milk.

The child fell asleep while nursing its bottle and was strangled on the milk.

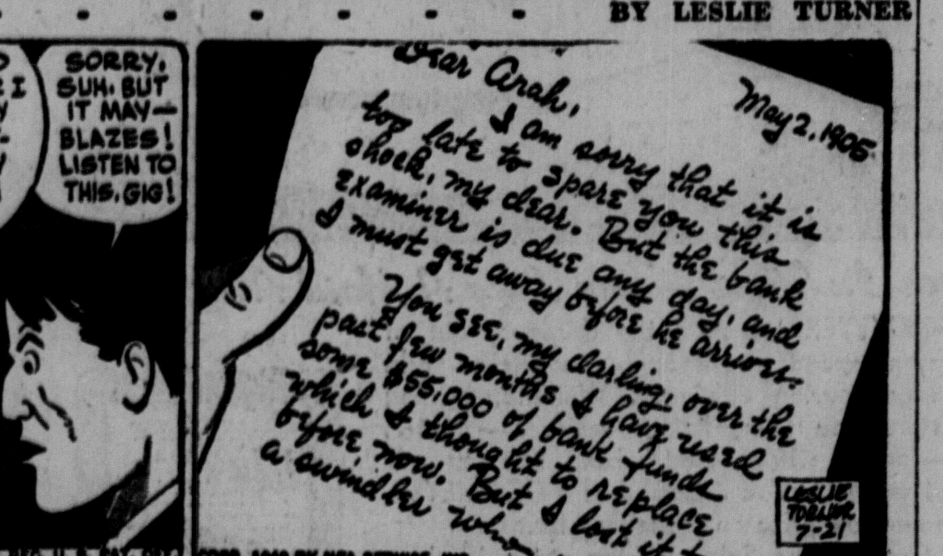

An investigation showed that the bottle nipple apparently was too large, allowing the milk to flow after the baby fell asleep.

Hopped-Up Clerk Says It Wasn't His Fault

ST. LOUIS—(UP)—William D. Allen, a 35-year-old clerk, told the judge that he wrote bad checks while under the influence of whiskey, marijuana, benzadrine and sleeping pills.

"I got to drinking," Allen explained, "but that didn't satisfy me so I turned to marijuana. That didn't satisfy either so I tried benzadrine. That made me so nervous I couldn't sleep so I bought sleeping tablets."

"I was so doped up I didn't know what I was doing," Judge Louis Comerford thought he could cure Allen by prescribing six months in the city workhouse.

WE HAVE CASH BUYERS for city, suburban and farm properties if the prices are right. Come in and let us help you solve your real estate problem. Burt C. Capel, 353 S. Ellsworth Avenue, Ph. 4314.

BUILDING a new country took courage. But there were men and women ready to risk their futures — even their lives — for an ideal. All they asked was an even break.

The American way of life is based on that principle of an even break. Just give an American a chance to get ahead — using his own vision and personal initiative — and he'll go on from there.

But when government goes into business, in competition with its own citizens, the American ideal of an even break is destroyed. For government in business demands special privileges that are denied to people in business.

Take government power systems, for instance. They pay no Federal taxes. They can get money from the U.S. Treasury at little or no interest. Even their losses can be made up from the pockets of the taxpayers.

On the other hand, America's business-managed electric light and power companies are self-supporting. Like all of American business, they pay their full share of taxes, and fair interest on any money they borrow. And they've built in America the most and best electric service in the world.

There are new frontiers in electric living still to be opened. And business men can do the job better than bureaucrats.

TRUMAN REPORTED TO WANT INQUIRY INTO ARMY DEALS

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—A new congressional demand for deep probing into "Washington 5 per centers" coincided today with word from a White House official that this is exactly what President Truman wants.

This source said the President has told Secretary of Defense Johnson and Secretary of the Army Gray to "proceed with their investigation of so-called five per centers" regardless of whom it might embarrass.

"Five per centers" is a name applied of late to persons who help get Army contracts for manufacturers for a commission. Some of them have been accused of saying they had influence with high officials which made their efforts particularly worthwhile.

Senator Mundt (R-SD) demanded today that the President's military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, be required to tell "whether he was just wind-jamming or actually knows something" about "five per centers."

Vaughan has said he knows "about 300 persons in Washington" engaged in contract operations.

A preliminary inquiry by the senate investigations subcommittee into allegations of the use of influence has resulted in suspension of two key officers by the Army department. They are Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical corps, and Maj. Gen. Herman Feldman, the quartermaster general.

BALDWIN EXPLAINS PACT EXPANSION

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.) urging the senate to approve the North Atlantic treaty, said today it could be expanded later into a world alliance to guard the peace.

He suggested also that an international police force is "within the range of possibility" under the treaty.

Some time late tomorrow the senate will vote on the 12-nation pact. The big issue is whether critics will be able to write in a declaration that the treaty does not carry any obligation for the United States to furnish arms to the other signers.

Senate leaders said the senate is certain to turn down efforts to write that in.

As for the risks involved in the treaty, Baldwin said that by failing to join the alliance the United States would run the risk "of standing alone in the world," he added.

"We run the risk of losing the allies and friends who have now indicated, at great danger to themselves, that they desire to be on the side of peace and freedom and justice, which is our side. We run the risk of losing ultimately such world trade as we now have; of losing for centuries to come the hope and possibility of building a world organization for the establishment of law and justice in the settlement of international disputes."

The U. S. Signal Corps established radar contact with the moon in 1946. The signal echoed back to the sending station in less than three seconds.

COMBINES COMBINE—Martin S. Zimmerman, New Holland, Pa., farmer, is a man in a hurry when it comes to harvesting his big wheat crop. So he fixed up the unusual machine, above, by joining a standard automatic baler and a combine to make one machine that does several jobs. Here a two-man crew is cutting the ripe wheat, threshing it to separate chaff from grain, baling the grain and baling the left-over wheat straw in one continuous operation. At left, an automatically twine-tied bale is ready to drop from the baling chamber.

BACKYARD IS GIRL PREACHER'S PULPIT

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—At an age when most girls are busy playing with dolls, 11-year-old Linda Kassimatis spends her time playing preacher before a sun-suited "congregation."

Every Wednesday afternoon for an hour she gathers her flock of neighborhood youngsters in her backyard for a Bible class. More than 40 children usually attend.

With all the decorum of one dedicated to the church, she calmly leads them in hymns and tells Biblical stories.

"Linda always played church. She'd get her dolls together and preach to them," said her mother. "Most children don't go to story hour at church, so I just thought I'd start one here," Linda explained.

Her seriousness in leading her squirming audience never deserts her. Her answer to the discipline problem is, "I just start talking and they keep quiet."

It's not really that simple. A couple of the older children act as monitors and her parents stand by to shake a finger at the too active. Linda's father, a cook, is unemployed because of illness. In front of her on a little bench, she keeps her briefcase with church papers, Bible and book-marks with religious pictures or texts. She gives the book-marks to members of the congregation for good attendance or for bringing new members.

Every service ends with the distribution of religious literature and a "treat," a cold drink and cookies. Linda's church and some of her neighbors help her with the expenses.

Woman Will Get $300,000 Bequest

CLEVELAND, July 21—(AP)—Although not even mentioned in a will drawn 45 years ago, a Cleveland woman is expected to get $300,000 from the document.

According to courthouse records, Mrs. Alice Hinds Connor is the only beneficiary of the estate of her bachelor uncle, Edward P. Price, also of Cleveland.

In his will, drawn in 1904, his mother was named as sole beneficiary, conditional on her surviving him. A sister, Mrs. Nellie B. Hinds, was to receive the estate, if his mother did not survive. In the event neither survived him, Mrs. Hinds' heirs were to be the beneficiaries.

Price outlived both of the women. Now, as the daughter of Mrs. Hinds and the only heir, Mrs. Connor is expected to receive the estate.

Only four per cent of Brazil's two billion acres is cultivated, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

COMPETITION HURTS PLAN TO CHEAPEN PORK

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, July 21—(AP)—Competition of pork, beef and lamb for the consumers' meat dollars appeared today to have thrown up a most effective barrier to the Truman administration's plan for cheaper pork.

Agriculture committee groups in both the senate and house yesterday turned thumbs down on a request by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan that he be permitted to use his production payment plan to support hog prices.

Under this plan, hog prices would be allowed to seek their natural level. If market prices failed to equal a level predetermined to be fair to the hog raiser, the government would make up the difference in the form of a subsidy paid from taxes.

Brannan's plan would replace the present price support method of government buying and withdrawing from the market enough of the pork supply to maintain hog prices at the so-called fair producer level.

Spokesmen for organized livestockmen, particularly cattle and sheep men, raised stern objections. They contended the Brannan subsidy plan would unduly depress prices of cattle, lambs and sheep.

Agriculture department officials do not deny that the Brannan plan would affect prices of other meat animals. They agree that if pork chops got cheap in relation to beefsteaks and lamb chops, a lot of beef and lamb consumers would buy pork instead.

But any reduction in prices of beef and lamb brought about by the Brannan plan, they say, would serve to help correct abnormal price relationships now existing.

In rejecting the Brannan hog subsidy proposal, the congressional committees apparently placed greater weight on arguments of the cattlemen than those of Brannan plan advocates.
